274—RAILROAD AVENUE, LOOKING WEST, LORDSBURG, NEW MEXICO

The bustling town of Lordsburg still remains a Frontier town as it borders on Arizona and not far from the line of Mexico — with its mining, cattle raising and picturesque desert country it is strangely interesting. The main business street—over the old Butterfield Stage Route—is more than a mile long. It is surprising that the slight variation in temperature is unequalled in the Southwest—with a difference of only some 20 odd degrees between summer and winter.
